Indian literature is not a corpus of texts or literary concepts from India, but a provocation that seeks to resolve the relationship between language and literature, written in as well as against English.

Join Preetha Mani (AMESALL, Rutgers) in conversation on her new book with

Charu Gupta (History, Delhi University)
Samah Selim (AMESALL, Rutgers)
Rebecca Walkowitz (English, Rutgers)

Thursday, November 10, 2022
4:00 – 5:30 pm (reception to follow)
AB 6051, 15 Seminary Place, CAC and on Zoom: https://go.rutgers.edu/fjso4tv5

Contact tamara.sears@rutgers.edu for more information.

Sponsored by African, Middle Eastern, & South Asian Languages & Literatures; Asian Languages and Cultures; Comparative Literature; Global Asias; and the Institute for Research on Women.