Course Description

This is the first part of a two-semester course in Turkish on the elementary level. This course builds the foundation for learning the Turkish language.

This course is designed to introduce students with the basic grammar and writing skills in a lively and interactive classroom atmosphere through communicative activities including pair-work, group work, role-playing and games. Students are encouraged to interact one another and use what they learn in the classroom to improve their vocabulary. Since effective communication and accuracy are the primary goals in this course, students will be given plenty of help and guidance. Oral practice will proceed from exchange of greetings to common everyday exchanges; especially of the type foreign students are likely to encounter in Turkey with attention to the key vocabulary centered on each topic. The professor’s approach combines communicative approach with the deep approach. Deep approach is process oriented, which refers to teaching the language with an important cultural component.

Turkish, as all other languages, requires a deep motivation by students. Students are expected to spend ½ to 1 hour for each class and expected to search extra materials. Authentic materials like songs, movie clips, movies and newspapers are used substantially.

We will be using Elementary Turkish Volume I and II - new edition by Kurtuluş Öztopçu as our course book. The course will improve and develop all the communicative skills and grammar. All basic language skills (listening, speaking, reading, and writing) are covered in class activities, in written and audio homework.
Course Delivery

Although this course is a hybrid course with 2 face-to-face sessions and 1 online session per week. Due to Covid-19 pandemic, this course will be taught as a synchronous online class. Synchronous online classes require students and the instructor to be online at the same time. Online class will be on Zoom platform. A weblink for the online classes will shared with students once the semester begins. Your homework, assignments, quizzes and handouts will be added to the course’s Sakai page during the semester. The instructor may choose to replace a virtual class meeting with online activities or assignments, which will allow students to complete the work on their own time within a specified timeframe. In such cases, students will be notified via class announcements in advance.

Minoring in Turkish:

Students can choose Turkish as their minor. Students who want to minor in Turkish must take 4 Turkish language courses (14-16 credits). In addition, they must also take EITHER

a. Two 300 level Turkish language courses (6 credits), OR
b. 013:201: Crossroads: Classical Literatures of Africa, the Middle East and South Asia (3 credits), and either 013:203 Language and Society (3 credits), or 013:221 Introduction to the Literatures of the Middle East (3 credits)

Required Textbooks/Materials

Textbook: Elementary Turkish I&II – (new edition
Author: Kurtulus Oztopcu
Useful technology and online resources:

Online Dictionary: www.tureng.com    www.seslisozluk.com

Course Structure

a) Content is organized thematically, divided into a number of themes and language functions, such as greeting, locations, families, food, shopping, etc.
b) Chapters from the textbook will be assigned to provide a basic framework for writing and comprehending the language.
c) Video content: videos in the Turkish language will be provided for oral comprehension purposes. The students will be asked to view videos and then provide a summary (written and/or oral) in Turkish and/or English of the content viewed.
d) Audio content: links to online podcast, Turkish Tea time, which covers various conversational skills, will be provided. It will help improve your listening skills.
e) Voice Recordings: You will prepare a 3-5 minutes voice recording on Voice Thread on Sakai at the end of every week. Each voice recording should include conversations and phrases that was learned in that week. This is to help you improve your conversation skills.

Assignments and Grading Policies

Course Requirements and Grading

(Grade Definition Quality Points from Rutgers University Catalog)

90-100 = A (4.0)    85-89 = B+ (3.5)    80-84= B (3.0)
75-79= C+ (2.5)    70-74= C (2.0)    60-69= D (1.0) below 60= F

You will be graded on your performance in the following requirements:

▪ Attendance & class participation %10
▪ Quizzes: %20
▪ Homework and Assignments: %25
▪ Midterm Exam: %20
▪ Final Exam: %25
Total: %100

Sakai: Your homework assignments, quizzes and midterm exam grades will be added to the course’s Sakai page during the semester. You should frequently follow your progress through Sakai.
Class Participation: Class participation constitutes a part of your grade and is essential for your improvement in learning Turkish. It is very important that you come to the class on time, be prepared and willing to participate actively.

Attendance Policy: Language learning requires greater participation during the class than most other subjects in the university curriculum. Students are expected to attend all classes; if you expect to miss one or two classes, please use the University absence reporting website https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/ to indicate the date and reason for your absence.

You are still responsible for any homework scheduled for the day/s you are absent. Exceptions will be made in extraordinary circumstances at the instructor’s discretion. You are also expected to attend the class on time, as coming late will be highly disruptive to the flow of the course and to your peers. If you are ill or anticipate a problem to be absent from class, you are encouraged to work with another student to borrow their notes or have them fill you in on what you missed. If possible, please discuss with the instructor any classes you anticipate missing before any assignment is due. Incompletes are very strongly discouraged.

Midterm and Final Exams:
Midterm and final exams will be held on campus to ensure academic integrity. The exams will consist of reading, listening/speaking, writing and grammar.
Midterm exam date: November 2, 2020
Final exam date: TBD
Final exam dates and places are available at http://finalexams.rutgers.edu/

Academic Integrity Policy of Rutgers University
Rutgers University regards violations include cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, denying others access to information or material, obtaining unfair advantage, and falsification of records and official documents as serious offenses against the values of intellectual honesty.
See the link here for details:

Since what counts as plagiarism is not always clear, I quote the definition given in Rutgers' policy:

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the use of another person’s words, ideas, or results without giving that person appropriate credit. To avoid plagiarism, every direct quotation must be identified by quotation marks or appropriate indentation and both direct quotation and paraphrasing must be cited properly according to the accepted format for the particular discipline or as required by the instructor in a course. Some common examples of plagiarism are:
• Copying word for word (i.e. quoting directly) from an oral, printed, or electronic source without proper attribution.
• Paraphrasing without proper attribution, i.e., presenting in one’s own words another person’s written words or ideas as if they were one’s own.
• Submitting a purchased or downloaded term paper or other materials to satisfy a course requirement.
• Incorporating into one’s work graphs, drawings, photographs, diagrams, tables, spreadsheets, computer programs, or other non-textual material from other sources without proper attribution
